Overview

Rhode Island's economy includes large private companies in the health care, financial services, marine products, defense and manufacturing sectors. Firms headquartered in Rhode Island include CVS Pharmacy, Hasbro and Amica Insurance. The state also hosts large divisions of such companies as Fidelity Investments, Metropolitan Insurance and General Dynamics.

Rhode Island is a leading center of higher education, with such institutions as Brown University, the University of Rhode Island, Johnson & Wales and Bryant University. In addition, the U.S. Navy has long had a significant presence in the Newport area, home to the Naval Undersea Warfare Center and the U.S. Naval War College. Government and non-profit community service agencies employ significant numbers of workers, and Rhode Island's well-developed tourism industry serves visitors from all over the world.

Important Notes

1. Employment figures shown in this report are either self-reported by companies and organizations or obtained by researching various sources.
2. Employment at individual companies and organizations often changes rapidly.
3. Local municipal employment is not included in this list.
